Festival Commission Workshop with Nick Roth on his Second Quintet for Accordion and String Quartet

This workshop explores the inspiration, the voyages and the imagining that go into the creation of new music. Nick Roth's Second Quintet for Accordion and String Quartet, commissioned by the Festival for Dermot Dunne and the Vogler Quartet, explores the ezan, or call to prayer, in Islam and the Sufi tradition in Persian architecture. The composer will tell the story of how the work came to be, with live performance and illustration of examples from the piece by the musicians to whom it is dedicated.

Music Generation Sligo Masterclass & Performance Programme @ The Model, Sligo

Tuned In Sligo International Chamber Music Festival Youth Programme is a short intensive chamber music experience, curated by Professor James Cavanagh for young musicians and their tutors, combining masterclasses, performances and attendance at Festival concerts.

This is an opportunity for young string players to develop ensemble playing within the classical genre, engaging with high level artists in the nurturing environment of the Festival. The weekend also brings young musicians into the audience to experience live performances of an international standard at one of Ireland's leading chamber music events.

Masterclasses will be led by the Vogler Quartet and the Grieg Trio. Ensemble activities will be directed by Professor James Cavanagh, curator. We invite string players, age 13+, grade 5 or above.

20th | Sligo International Chamber Music Festival

Visit Sligo this May Bank Holiday Weekend to celebrate the 20th Sligo International Chamber Music Festival. Artistic Director Tim Vogler presents another ambitious high-quality programme which sees the return of many festival favourites from the past 20 years – both musicians and music – performed by and with the internationally acclaimed ensemble-in-residence, the Vogler Quartet.

The 20th year also sees two very special new events funded by Sligo County Council's Creative Ireland Programme 2018-2022: The premiere of Nick Roth's Second Quintet for Accordion and String Quartet commissioned by the Festival. Join us on Saturday for music, poetry and art curated by poet Gerard Smyth to honour the late Seán McSweeney, a great friend since the festival first emerged in 2000.

The festival features the successful Tuned In! Youth programme co-funded by the Music Generation/Arts Council Partnership, in association with Music Generation Sligo. This unique and innovative programme is curated by Professor James Cavanagh from the Royal Irish Academy of Music.

Taking place in St Columba's Church Drumcliffe and The Model, Sligo International Chamber Music Festival is one of Ireland's leading chamber music events. Festival Season tickets and Day Saver tickets will be on offer to save and savour the full weekend – the ambience of Drumcliffe, the contemporary environment of The Model and the restaurants, shops, beaches and walks of Sligo.

As the producer of the festival, Sligo County Council Arts Office acknowledges our association with key partners throughout the full 20 year festival history: Vogler Quartet, Arts Council of Ireland, Artscope Ltd, Drumcliffe Vestry and Drumcliffe Tea House.
